Newark Police will Enforce Driver's License Documents that Expire

Newark Public Safety Director Anthony F. Ambrose said the department will begin enforcement of driver's license documents that no longer qualify for an extension past their expiration dates.

During the Coronavirus crisis, the New Jersey Motor Vehicle Commission extended the expiration date to December 31, 2020 for all standard driver's licenses, permits, standard non-driver IDs, vehicle registrations, inspections and temporary tags.

Director Ambrose said the commission has not granted an extension for those documents. It also has not given an extension to Commercial Driver's Licenses (CDL) and Commercial Learner's Permits (CLP), which were set to expire between March 1, 2020 and February 28, 2021.

Both will now expire February, 28, 2021.
